

Attendance, Poetry, October 29, 2007

Author:

Line:

[Bill Lychack]

Not long, I grant, but my entire life it has taken to figure out how to put on paper

[Carolyn Chica]

the symphony of my soul.

[Jane White]

[Farah Dahya]

The beat grows stronger,

[Samantha Hantman]

faster, louder, pulsing through my veins,

[Alexa Rahman]

and then slows to an almost silent still.

[Sophie Scolnik-Brower]

I want to lay down my thoughts before me,

[Kelicia Hollis]

yet they are caught in a whirlwind,

[Nicholas Sizer]

waiting for their chance to breathe.

[Hailee Minor]

So maybe I'll pack them away until the air is pure.

[Alexandra Tayara]

But how long will that be?